

52

Transforming Data to Destiny for Life-Changing Career Guidance

Richard Portelance from EdGate discusses the importance of data in career planning and the need for a lifelong learning repository to support modern with better integrations of details. Identifying the fractured nature of current career tools and the necessity for better visualization of career pathways, Richard highlights the role of educational standards and AI's potential with machine learning to map career pathways efficiently, empowering both learners and advisors.

Voices of Excellence on Episode 52

Richard Portelance
EdGate
LinkedIn

Links and Resources

- x Episode 52 of the Podcast
- x ACT Work Ready Communities
- x ACT Workforce Solutions
- x 2024 ACT Workforce Summit
- x Tear the Paper Ceiling Campaign
- x Inquire on WRC Storytelling and Poster Exhibition

Transcript of Episode 52

[Opening Jingle and Music]

Richard : Right now , it feels like we are at the cusp allowing wonder to flourish. As Socrates said, drive created. Any type of pathway can be mapped because and E standards lack